Neighbors, ASU students, scouts and the sheriff's chain gang will link up to clean up the county island that borders Tempe, where the 202 Freeway and Rural intersect. This is the 3rd annual effort coordinated by Maricopa County Supervisor Fulton Brock, Tempe Mayor Hugh Hallman and Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio.

Cars, couches and miscellaneous debris have been dumped in this 80-acre area north of the river bottom. The people who live and work in this county island, which borders Tempe, are affected by the blight.

One objective of the clean-up is to reduce crime. Sheriff's Department records indicate more than 750 calls to the square block area within a one-year period.

District 1 Maricopa County Supervisor, Fulton Brock, is passionate about cleaning up litter. This is one of many clean-ups he has spearheaded in his district. He rolls up his sleeves and works alongside other volunteers.

Anyone is welcome to join in the effort. Gloves, vests, garbage bags and water will be provided. Call (602) 506-1781 for more information, or simply show up at the staging area at Gilbert and Mary Roads, just south of Curry and east of Rural.
